4. Statistics for Data Analysis The statistics used for analyzing data were mean, percentage, standard deviation, and t-test (Dependent Sample). The obtained results will be compared with the assessment criteria of Areerat (2007) as follow: (Please refer to the criteria adopted in article)

The mean score 4.50 – 5.00 refers to the most appropriate

The mean score 3.50 – 3.49 refers to the most appropriate

The mean score 2.50 – 3.49 refers to the most appropriate

The mean score 1.50 – 2.49 refers to the most appropriate

The mean score 1.00 – 1.49 refers to the most appropriate (TH Sarabun PSK, size 14 points)

The researcher conducted a trial of the system……………………………………… ……………that developed with 30 undergraduate students majoring in Computer and Communication Technology. The pre – test was employed before the learning while the post - test and student satisfaction on the developed system were investigated after the learning. The results were, then, analyzed by using basic statistics through the comparison to the committed criteria to summarize the findings as shown in Table 1 (TH Sarabun PSK size 14 points)
